FRIDAY, SEPT. 4, 1857.

We have before us the "Report of the Clay Monument Association," published for the benefit of that association. It is for sale at all the bookstores in the city, and by all the news-boys. Besides an amount of the "Ceremonies at the Laying of the Corner-stone of the National Monument" at Lexngton, on the Pourth of July last, it contains the ble oration delivered by Dr. R. J. Breckinridge on that occasion. We hope that all our readers will procure a copy. From a slight examination of Dr. Breckinridge's discourse, as published, the impression we formed on hearing it delivered, that it is the only oration worthy of its immortal subject, is confirmed. All Mr. Clay's great qualities are traced to their true source, and are dwelt upon lovingly and truthfully. Especially does the orator seem to sympathise with that "unspoilt faculty of scorn" which Mr. Clay possessed-the scorn of all meanness, of all littleness, of all trick and chicanery, of everything that was not lofty and high and generous and noble. We have not time to say more at present, but propose to do so in a few days. The proceeds of the sale are for the erection of the mon-

THE KENTUCKY MECHANICS' INSTITUTE .- We can say nothing that would add to the attractiveness of this elegant exhibition. It is the place where whatever that is lovely and wonderful, and gay and fassinating and interesting in Louisvill congregate night after night.

HOWE'S PATENT ELLIPTIC SPRING BED BOTTOM. This article is on exhibition in the gallery of the Floral Hall on the Fair grounds. It was placed there evening before last, and has doubtless attracted the attention of many. Those who have tested its merits say they would not do without it. We recommend it to the attention of visitors at the Fair grounds.

There was a trial of ploughs near the Fair rounds yesterday. They all performed well.— Those of Messra. Brinley & Davis attracted much attention, and they sold one hundred of them. The awards are to be decided to-day. The Southern Pacific Railroad is being graded at the rate of two miles per week. More than five hundred hands are employed on the work.

Fivery spirit-tone from the soul-lyre of the roung poetess of New Castle is echoed from the depths of thousands of hearts:

THE MASONIC TEMPLE FAIR .- This evening erertainment has proven decidedly the most popular place of resort in the city during the week. It is nightly the center of attraction toward which fashion, beauty, and all the graces converge. In the magnificent Masonic Hall there is ample space and verge for the display of the most elaborate wardrobes, the finest chiseled features and forms, that would rival even the Venus de Medici in classic pu-

We are not surprised at these tremendous concourses. The object of the fair is a most noble one. At large expense, the Masonic fraternity have erectel one of the most complete and beautiful buildings in the West. It is a monument, that will last through ages, of their devotion to philanthropic objects, and their great enterprise in beautifying the city. It is additionally commemorative of the noble and indestructible principles of their venerable

In passing through the mazes of beauty and loveliness, the glitter and brilliance adorning the room, we are mystified in our attempts to select articles or persons deserving special mention, all are so beautiful and so eminently worthy of our praise.

We have already montioned the Encampment table and the accomplished lady presiding over it, assisted by her lovely and fascinating adjuncts. Immediately to the left is the Council table, over which preside Mrs. Hillman and Mrs. have arranged their apartment with exquisite taste and present such an array of attractive articles that we are not surprised at the throngs who gather about and purchase liberally of their goods. The bill of fare at this table is superh; it could not be excelled at Taylor's, in New York.

The "Willis Stewart" Lodge is admirably represented. A handsome portrait of that distinguished Macon hangs above the decoration. A number of interesting ladies preside here with native grace. Almost immediately opposite is the table of "Mt. Moriah" Lodge." It is especially tasteful in its substantials that one can but cover and desiring, can but feel in the utmost depths of his pockets for the wherewith to purchase. This beautiful table is under the charge of Mrs. James Lupe and Mrs. George Briggs.

The ball room is thronged nightly, and is the source of much innocent pleasure to hundreds of our young friends whose passion it is to trip it on the light fantastic toe

We are gratified to learn that the success of the fur has thus far more than equaled the expectations of the most sanguine. It is designed to keep the fair open during the next week, so that all will have an opportunity of visiting the beautiful temple. Additions to the attractions and means of enjoyment of the fair will be made each night.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The river is rising again. Lest evening there were 4 feet 7 inches water in the canal. The rise is from the Kentucky river.

For Memphis and New Orleans .- The elegant and popular steamer Northerner will leave for Memphis this evening. She will connect at Cairo with the splendid steamer Virginia, Capt. Chas. F. Reynolds, which leaves that port for New Orleans on Friday. Travelers cannot find better boats than the N. and V. We are indebted to Mr. Archer, her clerk, for late papers. For St. Louis .- The fine and fast packet Alvin Adams, in command of Capt. Lamb, resumes her regular tripe in the St. Louis trade to-day.

The Fashion, Capt. J. M. Martin, is the packet to-morrow. She arrived yesterday, and we are in debted to her attentive clerk for favors.

The Wm, Dickson will leave for Tennessee river this evening, the Tempest for Nashville, the J. H. Done for Wheeling, and the Mazel Dell for Pitts

The Superior, Capt. Summons, is the mailboat for Cincinnati to-day.

The spiendid steamers David White and James Montgomery will positively leave for New Orleans to-morrow evening. The Statesman is the regular packet for Hender on this evening.

FAIR FOR THE ORPHANS .- Reader, have you yet paid your respects to the lady managers of the Orphan's Pair at Mozart Hall? If not, at once put a dollar or two in your pockets and repair to that hall to-night. The gratification you must feel in taking part in the charitable work of feeding and clothing the erphan will be worth to you ten times its cost.

THE U.S. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY. Fifth Annual Fair.

FOURTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

As had been hopefully predicted, yesterday was the most interesting day thus far of the week. The attendance was much the greatest of any day, and the arrival of numerous strangers of distinction wided very consilerably to the general interest. The delightful weather that has thus far been vouchsafed to us continues with undiminished brilliance. It is all that heart could desire—the days seeming to have been stolen from some balmy clime, where storms and heat come not, but over which shines a bright attempered sun, shorn of his beams, and sweet south winds laden with refreshing odors steal in all their hymned willfulness.

The spectacle presented upon the grounds yesterday was of the most exciting and enlivening character. From the amphitheatre came the shouts of the peorle and the clear, soft tones of music. In the Floral Hall all was gayety and bustle. About the Implement Hall and Agricultural Tent were to be heard those most propitious of all notes-the sounds of industry, of busy, stirring, active life. Universal satisfaction prevailed, and President Wilder's face last evening was wreathed with smiles. THE CATE AS DISPLAY.

This was not large, and consisted chiefly of Jersey cattle, another uncommon breed in this latitude. but highly popular where best known. It is chiefly remarkable for the fine lacteal fluids it produces. POULTRY.

We have nothing remarkable to report concern ing our foul friends, the chickens, turkeys, ducks, and geese. They were neither numerous, nor peculiarly noticable for size, although they may possess certain qualities not particularly recognizable by one who is unacquainted with the feathered biped

THE TROTHING MATCHES.

The excitement of the Derby and Epsoni races bould scarcely have eclipsed that which pervaded the vast throng looking upon the trotting races yesterday. About the Judge's stand there was a living, moving, enthusiastic crowd. Around the whole track were gathered hundreds of spectators. Watches were out of every man's pocket timing the speed of the horses, and whenever they passed there was cheer after cheer for the swift steeds and their bold drivers. We are unable to give but the result of one of the matches. The Judges, singularly enough, failed to make the proper report at the Secretary's office.

THE HORSE RINGS.

We heard but one voice from the vast crowd that beautified and adorned the amphitheatre yesterday. It was an expression of universal and unalloyed sat isfaction at the brilliant display of horses. No wonder that the ladies waved their handkerchiefs with lily-white hands and the gentlemen cheered with finest horses were introduced for the inspection of the Judges. The test of these arbitrators must have been difficult indeed. Between such elegant and spirited specimens of the equine race it was indeed a matter requiring the utmost taste and horseense to discriminate properly.

Every variety of the horse kind was shown. We had horses that paced and maked and went all manner of gaits. We had draft horses that could aptheir eternal bases. We had specimens of driving that would have put to blush any of the charioteers who figured in the Olympian races; and there were vouths and men astride of neble horses who appeared to have been born in the saddle-perfect Kentucky centaurs.

The following gentlemen have reported themselves to the "press tent" since our last issue: James E. Worsham, Evening News, Memphis; B. F. Sandford, Ohio Valley Farmer, Cin.;

Wm. T. Dennis, Indiana Farmer, Richmond, Howard Cox, Republican, Bloomington, Ind.; S. Davis, Journal, Covington, Ky.;

G. F. Cookerly, Journal, Terre Haute, Ind.; G. F. Gray, Evening Journal, Albany, N. Y.; Goo. E. Greene, Sun, Vincennes, Ind., A. S Mitchell, Intelligencer, St. Louis, Mo. A. Speer, Prank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper THE FLORAL HALL.

This beautiful building was again thronged to overdowing during the entire day. From whatever point of the interior a view is taken of its proportions the spectator is struck with wonder and delight. Every arrangement is complete, and the display of fruits and flowers is exceeded in tastefulness only by the superb quality and deliciousness of these choice gifts of nature. The committees were still hard at work during the day, but promise a report of their careful doings this morning.

THE IMPLEMENT TENT.

It has been generally remarked that the West has never witnessed such an extensive and complete collection of agricultural implements as are to be seen in the mammoth tent. They embrace every class of article that the fertile and inventive genius of America can produce. The farmer can now contemplate no possible contingency in rearing his crops that is not provided for by these useful and labor-saving machines.

We are proud to see that the Kentucky Harvester, manufactured by Miller, Wingate, & Co., is attracting special attention. It has won a large number of premiums, and has justly established itself in the confidence of agriculturists throughout the South and Wast.

Hay, Straw, and Fadder Cutter .- One of these mathines attracted our notice. It is of a very useful class. A great variety of them have been manufactured for cutting feed for horses and cattle, but few have proven successful.

The Cummings patent, exhibited by George D. Griffin, of Harrisburg, Pa., strikes us as the best we ever saw. Its remarkable features are—first, that by which it cleanses the provender on which it operates, ere it reaches its revolving knives. This operation is done perfectly, and thus the knives are saved from being dulled and backed by cutting grit, as in all other such machines. Next, the provender is passed, ere reaching the knives, between rollers, which invariably crush all stocks over half an inch in diameter. This great advantage is obtained in no other such machine. Others will cut up stocks, but do not render them fit to be eaten by cattle, which invariably refuse out stocks if not crushed so as to render them convenient for being eaten and digested. Browleast Seed Sower .- Mr. D. R. Haynes exhibits a simble machine for sowing grain, bemp, riax, &c.,

Com and Cob Mill. J. O. Joyce & Co., of Cincinuati, have on exhibition their famous Star Mill. In appears worthy of its reputation.

Shelling Corn .- After examining one of the machines of J. Vanhorn, of Putnam, Ill., we have come to the conclusion that the day of "corn shuckings" is over. Machinery effects now that which was fer merly performed by slow and tedious manipulation.

Illimis Harcester .- This is the patent of Mr. Haines, for the reaping of grain, designed, as it is, to reap and elevate the cut grain into a wagon bed at one and the same time, or discharge it in a swath their stentorian voices as ring after ring of the to be taken up by barkey forks after curing, or raked off in girth for binding, if necessary.

Corn Planter. - A combined corn planter and cornfield hoe is enhibited by Daniel B. Niel, of Mt. Gilead, Morrow co., Ohio.

An improvement on the same article is shown by D. W. Hughes, of Palmyra, Mo., warranted to plant as well in sod, or rough, rooty, and stony ground. But it would occupy all of our available space to even make a catalogue of these articles. We turn parently have drawn the Egyptian pyramids from to the source of the busy hum and roar of ma-

THE VINTEACTERERS' HALL.

It is crowded to repletion, and there are still numerous arrivals from abroad. Untering at the east of the hall, we are pleased to notice a magnificent display of Louisville manufactures, from the foundery of Messrs. Wallace, Lithgow, & Co. Specimens (all very superior) of their work have been junior partner (J. Henry Thomas) possesses. A Three years and over,—let premium to R. A. Alexander, ministure stove, produced by the "boys" of the One year and under two let premium to Thos. Aston's foundary, is a beautiful specimen of mechanical in-quality, Loraine co., O. genuity

Captain Harly was present during the day, discoursing with untiring zeal upon the merits of his wonderful combination lock. It was chiefly wondered at, for so intricate is the invention that but few can comprehend its construction. The Captain, however, impressed every one with the utility of his invention.

Mr. E. McDonald of the city has on exhibition a lot of refrigerators, ice chests, water coolers, &c. They are of the best quality.

exhibition two boats patented by himself. One is a life-boat, designed for security on the open sea, or in the surf upon a dangerous coast. The other is adapted to rivers, and is so light and portable that it will be eminently serviceable in all military operation.

Specimens of the iron pipe designed for the Louis ville Water Works, made by Hatchings & Co., at the Locomotive Works, are on exhibition. They are of 4, 8, 10, 12, 16, and 20 inches in diameter, and the same. very remurhable for their solidity.

We are gratified to know that the success of manafacturers from abroad has been very great. Most of them have made extensive sales.

We hear also of sales of Devon cattle and other herds brought from a distance and all at fair prices. DISTINGUISHED STRANGERS.

There was a large number of gentlemen of distinction on the grounds yesterday. Among them Vice President Breckinridge, Hon. Thes. M. Clay. Judge Duval, of the Appellate Court, Gen. Sidney Johnson, &c. The latter gentleman has been appointed to the command of the Utah expedition. He is a native of Madison county, in this State, and one of the most accomplished and brave officers in the army.

GRAND DISPLAY TO DAY.

The daily exhibitions are, like the crescent moon continually waxing in interest and importance. To-day, the result of the grand trial of imple ments at Syracuse, N. Y., is to be aunounced.

There are to be rings for mules and smaller stock; and among them a magnificent mule of Williams, Hyeronymous, & Co. - one of a lot of 800, designed for the Louisiana market. The ponies and saddle-horses are to be shown.

and there is to be a grand cavalcade of all the cat tle that have been shown during the week. Directly after the dinner hour to-day, the super stud of Arabian horses, owned by Mr. A. Keene Richards, of Scott co., are to be exhibited. We amen the programme for to-lay:

Du. Consentru.-We find in Vermont paper the following account of a remarkative operation performed by that very skillful and conitent surgeon, Dr. Goldsmith, Professor of Sargery in the Kentucky School of Medicine:

A Successful Surgical Operation—S, we time slave a boy in this vicinity fell from a tree with an open pen-inife in his hand. He struck in such a manner as Inife in his hand. He struck in sect a manner as to force the blade through his ear into his head. The blade broke off, leaving an inch and a quarter of its length buried out of eight in the substance of the head. The blade eventually passed into the brain. An application to several embout surgeons in New York and classwhere failed to bring raises. in New York and elsewhere tailed to bring ratest. The case was at last brought to the attention of Dr. Middleton Goldsmith, of Costleton hielded College, who lately succeeded, by a delicate operation, is removing the blade. After the removal the brain could be distinctly felt at the bottom of the cavity. The heaving, which had been impacted, was entirely restored, and the boy is now as good as new.

FAIR GROUNDS, Sept. 4. Everything is propitions to-day—the weather, the display of stock, and the attendance of the people. is a larger crowd than even yesterday, which was the most numerous of the week.

We have had mules of the tallest height (18 hands), and the glossiest skins, jet black, chestnut, and buy-all beautiful, and all, of all ages, (y)earlings, as our friend less lick, of the Spirit of the Times, would say. The specimens of that patient tribe whereof Coleridge wrote a touching ditty, and upon which Don Quixote, Gil Blas, and those other knights rode and tilted at wind-mills, have been remarkably muscular and brawny. The show this evening will be the greatest of the week, equaisting entirely of bleeded horses.

The ponies enter in a grand cavalcade at noon. The awards for reaper and mowers at the trial in Meapers .- C. H. McCormick, of Chicago, Ills., gold medal; Walter A. Wood, of Hoosac Falls, N. Y., silver medal; Warder, Brokaw, & Child, Springfield, Ohio, broaze wedal; Jonathan Haines, Pckin, file , diploms.

Reapers and Movers, Combined Machines .- Walter A. Wood, Hoosac Palls, N. Y., gold medal; D. M. Osborne, Buffalo, N. Y., silver medal; Warder, Brokaw, & Child, Spring eld, Ohie, bronze medal.

The awards for mowing machines have not yet been made.

CONSUMPTION OF MEAT IN PARIS,-The Paris correspondent of the New York Journal of Comenerce states the annual consumption of meat in Paris at a hundred and sixty millions of pounds, it being deable the amount consumed thirty years ago. He adds that the monogoly now erjoyed by the butchers is to be broken up and free trade substituted. Apprehensions are entertained for the consequences of the experiment, as, under the present system of licensed victuallers, knavery is sufficiently prevalent. It is stated that the police had just detected at Mont Martre an entensive entrepot of ekinned cats, which were furnished by contract to the eataug-houses, and served up as rabbits, bares, and other common materials for ragouts.

I had three small sers in my room, but they did not hear the report. I supposed that in my sleep I had torn my hand against the bed-post. I waked up my sons, they lit a candle and I discovered that my right shoulder was covered with blood. Man Shot—Probable Homacide.—A man named slider was shot last night, on Shelby street, near Trenevant, by another named James R. Pollock. The weapon used was a pixto and the ball entered the stomach. There was an unsettled difficulty beween the parties, the origin and progress of which have been related to us. It appears that they have both been paying court at the shrine of a young woman who resides on Poplar street, with whom Poltick had exchanged daguerrectypes and perhaps other tokens of reciprocal affection and confidence. ther tokens of reciprocal affection and confidence. But, as "the course of true leve never does run smooth," a misunderstanding of some sort areas between them, upon which Pollock demanded the return of his pictured semblances. The lady compiled, though, at the time of giving him possession, he took occasion to express her opinion that he was "no part of a gentleman." Pollock replied that he could not strike a woman, but if any male friend would take her part he would resent the insult. THE NATIONAL CAPITOL—Extension, Progress, and Beauty of the Work.—A large number of iron plinths, for the heavy columns of then ew dome, have lately arrived from the iron works of the contractors, and are being put up. The pilasters and columns will immediately follow on the setting of the plinths. The interior coraice of the new dome is being put up under the superintendence of Mr. Fowler, of the firm of Bebee & Co.

In the new House hall the ellek of the busy hammer and the usual industrial sounds attendant on the presecution of a vast work are constantly heard. The doors of the galleries of the hall are being made, and are of beautiful design and finish; they are veneered with bird's-eye maple, and further finished by exquisitely designed brass ornamental mouldings, representing national fruits, flowers &c.

Of these doors surrounding the galleries of the Of these doors surrounding the galleries of the two halls there are to be twenty-four, twelve of which are nearly done, and are being ornamented with variously designed mouldings and wrenths.—
The mouldings are all being done in the brass foundery, attached to the premises, by the best artists. The fidor of the new hall is being rapidly finished. The gallery fronts are all done except the painting. The Speaker's retiring room—which will be, when finished, the most beautiful room in the whole building—is constructed entirely of iron. The pilasters ing—is constructed entirely of iron. The pilasters are now being set, and the bricklayers are backing up as fast as they are placed in position.

The mechanical exactitude which is required in fitting together the various parts of the iron finishing is far beyond that of any other branch of the work. The ornamental sash lights in the ceiling of the new hall will be a sight to inspire the admiration of the most indifferent observer. The beautiful designs in colored glass, representing in each light the arms of one of the States of the Union, are soon to be set, and will not fail to create astonishment and delight. All the rooms surrounding the hall of the House are being pushed forward toward completion with com-mendable dispatch. The painting, plastering, freecoing, and all the various branches of the interir work are in a state of advancement.

The stairways of either building are going up, and growing in interest and beauty as they advance. They are to be of marble, either native or Italian, throughout. The stairway in the new Senate, when completed, will challenge the admiration of the world. Not a point from base to apex but what will be so nicely fitted together that it will seem as if bewn out of solid rock; and so highly polished as to serve for a mirror to reflect back the figure of the spectator a minor to the portion and colon adds are nearly finished at both wings. The connecting corridors are going up with uninterrupted success. It is worthy of remark that the capitals and pilasters throughout will be ornamented with designs representative of American products, such as corn, te-

In the statuary department the work goes bravely on. The large piece nearly finished by Gaghardi, representing "America," is worth a visit; and, near by, in the same room, the "Indian Mother" is nearly completed by the same artist. In an adjoining room, the "Woodman," from a new design by Crawford, is just begun. This piece represents the pioneer American in the act of felling an enormous tree, while at its foot a poisonous snake, with uplifted head and fangs distended, watches with devilish hate the sturdy ferester who has disturbed its domicil. The woodman toils on, unaware of the lurking danger. The piece is life-size and designed with graphic skill, and is to be executed by Senor Batti, an Italian sculptor. "The Young Hunter" is the name of another new piece from the same designer, and just commenced by Senor Batti.

A large sewer to drain the entire building leading from the center of the ald Capitol is being exercised.

A large sewer to drain the entire building leading from the center of the eld Capitol is being constructed; it is some thousand feet in length, one hundred feet of which is now completed. It will discharge into the canal at the foot of First street. The work is being superintended by Mr. Zepheniah Jones, and will be completed entirely by the first of October

The construction of the dome will not occupy les than eix years in building, and when completed will be an ackievement in iron architecture second to nore

THE VICTIM OF POLITICS.—Peter Brigh, the victim of politics, seated upon the curb, with his feet across the gutter, placed his elbow on a stepping stone, and, like Juliet on the balcony, leaned his head upon his haud—a hand that would perhaps have been the better for a covering, though none would have been rash enough to volunteer to be a glove upon it. He was in a dilapidated condition; out at clows, out at knees, out of pocket, out of office, out of spirits, and out in the street; an "out and outer" in every respect, and as outer a mortal as ever the eye of man did rest upon. For some time Mr. Brush's reflections had been silent. Following Hamlet's advice, "he gave them an understanding, but no tongue;" and he relieved himself at intervals by spitting forlornly into the kennel. at intervals by spitting forlornly into the kennel.
At length, suffering his locked hands to fall between his knees, and heaving a deep sigh, he spoke:

his knees, and heaving a deep sigh, he spoke:

"A long time ago, my ma used to put ou her specks and say, 'Peter, my son, put not your trust in princes;' and from that day to this I haven't done anything of the kind, because none on 'em ever wanted to borrow nothing of rae; and I never see a prince or a king—but one or two, and they had been rotated out of office—to borrow nothing of them.

rotated out of office—to borrow nothing of their. Princes! pooh! Put not your trust in politicianers—them's my sentiments. You might just as well try to hold an eel, for I've tried both, and I know. Put not your trust in politicianers, or you'll get a byst.'

"Ten years ago it came into my head that things weren't going on right; so I pretty nearly gave myself up tee-totally to the good of the Republic, and left the ship to look out for itself. I was brimful of patriotism, and so uneasy in my mind for the salvation of freedom I couldn't work; I tried to guess which side was going to win, and I stuck to il like wax; sometimes I was a-'tother, and sometimes I straddled till the election was over, and came up jist in time to jine the burwas over, and came up jist in time to jine the burrah. It was good I was after; and what good could I do if I wasn't on the 'lected side? But, after all, it was never a bit of use.
"Whenever the battle was over, no matter what

"Whenever the battle was over, no matter what side was sharing out the loaves and the fishes, and I stepped up, I'll be hanged if they didn't cram all they could into their own mouths, put their arms over some, and grab at the rest with their pawe, and say: 'Go away, white man, you an't capable.' Capable! what's the reason I an't cap thle?—I've got as extensive a throat as any of 'em, and I could awallow the loaves and fishes without choking, if each loaf was as big as a grind-stone and each itsh as big as a sturgeon. Give Peter a chance, and leave him alone for that. Then, sucther time when I called 'I want some spoils,' says I, 'a small bucketful of spoils. Whichever side gets in shares the spoils, don't they?' So they first grinned, and then they ups and tells me that virtue like mine was its own reward, and that spoils might spoil me. But it own reward, and that spoils might spoil me. But it was no spoils that spoilt me, and no loaf and fish that starved me. I'm spoilt because I couldn't get that starved me. I m spoil because I couldn't get either.

"Put not your trust in politicianers; I say it again. Both sides used me jis' abke. Here I we been serving my country, mote or less, these ten years, like a patriot—going to town meetings, hurrahing my daylights out, and getting lacked fifty times, and having more black eyes and bloody noses than you could shake a stick at, all for the common good, and for the purity of our legal rights; and all for what? Why for nix. If any good has come of it, the country has put it in her own pocket, and swindled me out of my armings. I can't get no office! Republics is ungratefu! It wasn't reward I was after. I scorns the base in-inivation. I only wanted to be took care of, and have nothing to do but to take are of the public; and I've only got half—nothing todd. took care of, and have nothing to do but to take care of the public; and I've only got half—nothing to do! Being took care of was the main shing. Republics is ungrateful! I'm blasted if they ain't. This is the way old soldiers are served! Welt, well; live and learn—live and learn! The world's not what a man takes it for before he finds it out. Whiskers grows sooner than what experience does. Genus and patriotism ain't got no chance."

Adventage of Foreign Travel.—An elderly lady who, with her daughter, has but recently returned from a very rapid journey through England, France, part of Germany, and Italy, was asked the other day if she had visited Rome, and she replied in the negative. "La! Ma, yes we did," said the daughter, "that was the place where we bought the bad stockings."

teur, gives this description of an entertainment given in Paris by a rich New Yorker:

A very rich and very intelligent American, Mr. James Dieck Hill, a charming man despite his millions, has determined to prove to the Parisians that they were wrong to complain of the heat, and to show them how it is braved and turned to good account. He gave a charming fete in his splendid vast drawing rooms, which are as airy as the Louvre. A large circular balcony, running around the rooms, allowed the guests to enjoy the air, without losing a note of the delicious music, which had attracted an enormous crowd on the Place de la Madeleine.—The greets received at their entrance a hearty shake hands and a fan. He found means of assembling at this solvee, where an incredible degree of luxury was displayed, more artists, and great artists, than would be necessary to assure the fortune of twenty theatres. There were Mme. Borghimamo of the Opera. Mme. Frezzolinni, of the Italian Opera, Mmes. Balestra, Laboccetts, Cimino, Didot. Ardavani, Bragi, Mmlle. Cerbari and two American ladies who will soon shine on the stage of the Italian Opera—Miss Hensler and Mrs. de Wilhorst.—Mme. Borghimamo delighted the company with a Neapolitan song and the famous brindlet of Lucrezia Borgia. I say nothing of the success, nor of the voice of Mrs. de Wilhorst, nor of her talents; because, if she appears at one of our theatres, as we believe she is to do, we should not anticipate the interest of her debut. Mmc. Frezzolini bade us adieu that evening; she was very beautiful and very sad; she cannot console herself on leaving Paris, although she gees to New York on a golden bridge longer than the submarine cable which will soon connect England and America. Ouc of our friends asked her what she intended singing, but he repented his imprudence. "You are very curious," said she, drilly. "I will sing whatever I please." The truth is, she istended to sing only one song, but, yielding to a sudden and irresistille inspiration, she sang, one after the other, the in Paris by a rich New Yorker:

THE CHINESE AND THE KATS .- A letter from China to the London Times contains the following: "I have already speken of the fatness and fertility "I have already spoken of the fatness and fertility of the Hong Kong rats. When Minutius, the dictator, was swearing Flaminius in as his master of horse, we are told by Plutarch, that a rat chanced to aqueak, and the superstitions people compelled both officers to resign their posts. Office would be held under great uncertainty in Hong Kong if a similar superstition prevailed. Sir John Bowring has just been swearing in Gon. Ashburnham as member of the Colonial Council, and, if the rats were sileut, they shawed unusual modesty. They have sileut, they showed unusual modesty. They have forced themselves, however, into a State paper. Two hundred rata are destroyed every night in the jail. Each morning the Chinese prisoners see with tearful eyes and watering mouths a pile of these delicacies cast out in waste. It is as if Christian prisoners were to see scores of white sucking pigs tossed forth to the dogs by Mahommedan jailers. At last they could refrain no longer. During the punishment of tail-cutting, which follows any infraction of prison discipline, they first attempted to abstract the delicacies. Foiled in this, they took the more many course. They indiced a petition in good the delicacies. Folica in this, they took the more manly course. They indited a petition in good Chinese, proving from Confucius that it is sinful to cast away the food of man, and praying that the meat might be handed over to them to cook and eat. This is a fact, and if Gen. Thompsen doubts it, I recommend him to move for a copy of the correspondence.

Suicide or a Pigeon,-"A Bachelor," writing from Cocksville to the Macon (Miss.) Beacon, relates the following incident, which may be called beautiful, if true. He says: I had a pair of beautiful pigeons presented to me by a lady friend, which I reared as pets about the house to console my lonely hours. This evening the female, perceiving the end of a cat's tail vibrating from beneath a pair of steps, and prompted, I sup-pose, by a curiosity inseparable from her sex, flew down for a closer inspection of the insertiable gy-rations—when, alas! in an instant she fell a prey to the relentless feline paws—another fall caused by female curiosity. The male, at first, scemed bewildered, then commenced uttering a low, plaintive noise, like the ecoing of the dove; but in a few monoise, like the cooing of the dove; but in a few moments, as if becoming suddenly conscious of the inconsolable loss of his lovely partner, flew into a pool of water near by, and, netwithstanding the strenuous efforts of myself and servant to the contrary, succeeded in effectually drowning himself.

Having been most unmercifully belabored by some Having been most unmercifully belabored by some writers for my note to you in June last, in regard to the growing cetten crop, I take the liberty of again calling your attention to the subject. To show that my object was not to knowingly over-estimate the crop, I send you a slip taken from one of our city papers. My opinion is shared by the editors of that paper, as well as by Mr. Peabody, one of the most practical men in the South, and one whose judgment a certified to great consideration. I still persist in ractical men in the Soura, and one whose judgment is entitled to great consideration. I still persist in saying that with a late frost, say 5th to 10th of November, the production will approximate 3,500,000. I have had ample opportunity for several weeks past of examining the crops in several counties, and it is my deliberate judgment that the prospect was never more premising.

Our opinion, be it observed, is predicated on that of planters and others. We find, among others, that Mr. Peabody, of the Soil and Planter, who was here later, who was here last Saturday, agrees with us, that, with good weather and a late frost, the crop will be leavy. Within a day or two we have seen a few crops which bear us out in what we have said. Tho weed is large and well laden, and the weather is now very fine.

Mrs. Baker takes a benefit to-night:

Mrs. Alexica Fisher Ealer. The stage in our Atlantic cities has possessed no greater favorite than this lady. For the last fifteen years, and since her girlhood, she has occupied a most commanding position. The newspaper reputation that preceded her advent to Louisville had prepared us for the chaste and carefully studied personations which she has already given us, and we know not which to admire the most, the impassioned fervor and soul which she throws into her pathetic delineations, or the sparkling buoyancy of her comedy, but in every character she charms us by her strict fidelity to nature, and the absence of those conventionalities which have made the stage so often an exaggeration rather than a truthful reflex of life and human passions. With a voice of peculiar sweetness, and all rather than a truthful reflex of life and human passions. With a voice of peculiar sweetness, and all the skillful modulation of elegant elecution, she wins her way at once to public favor, and mirrors to her auditors the beauty of the authors whose work she illustrates, with a skill which shows how nearly allied are the arts of poetry, painting, and the diama.

As Mrs. Baker makes her first appeal to the generosity of the Louisville public in a benefit this evening, we feel confident that it will meet a hearty response, and that the theater will present an array of "hearts and hands" to crown her triumph in our city. Many families, we are aware, are much ab-

Theart's and hands" to crown her triumph in our city. Many families, we are aware, are much abstreed in the duties of private lospitality at this time, and but few of our citizens comparatively have witnessed her beautiful acting, but the house has been nightly crowded with visitors who have greeted her efforts with the most enthusiastic evidences of approval, and she has already established herself as a favorite among all classes.

We deem it our duty to say that Mr. Baker, the lessee, and Col. Wallace, the manager, have most promptly seconded the efforts of our citizens to entertain and bestow hospitality upon the many straugers now visiting us, and have courteously extend-gers now visiting us, and have courteously extend-ed the freedom of the theater to all our brother guests of the press, and to the officers, judges, &c., of the United States Agricultural Fair. When the bustle and excitement of the great exhibition are over the efforts of these gentlemen will be remem-bered, and we can answer for Louisville that they will be cordially appreciated. In the mean time, let the attendance on the benefit of the lady of the lessee this evening be made the occasion for juying off one instalment of our obligation.

THE WASHINGTON FAMILY.

To the Hilitors of the Loursville Journal:

Several articles having appeared in your paper in relation to "The Washington Family," I desire to speak. I was well acquainted from my infancy with the late Gen. Alexander L. Spotswood and Mrs. Spotswood, late of Barren county, Ky. Gen. Spotswood, was a grand-on, I believe, of Gen. Spotswood, a Colonial Governor of Virginia, and, I believe, a nephew of the mother of "the Father of his country." Mrs. Spotswood, the wife of Gen. A. E. Spotswood, was a Miss Lewis, a niece of Gen. Washington. Gen. and Mrs. Spotswood left several children. Mrs. Adaline Anderson, of this city, is one of them, and a grand niece of Gen. Washington. Mrs. Dodge, wife of J. G. Dodge, is a child of hers. Mr. Dodge is a child of another daughter, who married the Rev. Mr. Dodge.

I would further add that Mr. Anderson has several other very worthy children, among whom is Judge Goodall, of Tenn. Mrs. Anderson has been married twice, first to Mr. Goodall and next to Mr.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.

Washington, Sept. 3.

The following contains the most important features of President Buchansn's reply to the memorial of Professor Silliman and forty-two others of Connecticut on the affairs of Kansas. He commences by stating that from the distinguished source whence it proceeds, as well as its peculiar character, he has deemed it proper to depart from his general rule in such cases and to give it an answer. He then argues: You first assert that the fundamental principle of the Constitution of the United States and of our political institutions is that the people shall make their own laws and elect their own rulers.

You then express grief and astonishment that I their own laws and elect their own rulers. You then express grief and astonishment that I should have violated this principle, and through Gov. Walker have employed the army, one of the purposes of which is to force the people of Kansas not to obey thir own laws nor those of the United States, but laws which, it is notorious and established upon evidence, they never made and rulers they never elected; and, as a carollary from the foregoing, you represent that I am openly held up and proclaimed, to the great derogation of our national character, as violating, in its most essential particular, the solemn oath which the President has taken to support the constitution of this Union.

These are heavy charges, proceeding from gentlemen of your high character, and if well founded

These are heavy charges, proceeding from gentle-men of your high character, and if well founded ought to consign my name to infamy; but, in proought to consign my name to infamy; but, in proportion to their gravity, common justice, to say nothing of christian charity, requires that before making them you should have clearly ascertained that they were well founded. If not, they will rebound with withering condemnation upon their author. Have you performed this preliminary towards the man, who, however unworthy, is the chief magistrate of your country? If so, either you or I am laboring under a strange delusion.

Should this prove to be your case, it will present a memorable example of the truth that political prejudice is blind even to the existence of the plainest and most palpable historical facts. To these facts let us refer. When I entered upon the duties of the Presidential office on the 4th of March last, what was the condition of Kansas? That territory had been organized, and its government in all its what was the condition of Kansas? That territory had been organized, and its government in all its branches was in full operation. A Governor, Secretary of the Territory, Chief Justice, two associate Justices, Marshal, and District Attorney had been appointed by my predecessor, and were all engaged in discharging their respective duties; a code of laws had been enacted by the Territorial Legislature, and the judiciary were employed in expounding and in discharging their respective duties; a code of hiws had been enacted by the Territorial Legislature, and the judiciary were employed in expounding and carrying these laws into effect.

In referring to the controversy that had previously arisen respecting the election of members to the Territorial Legislature, he eaye: In fact, I found the government of Kansas as well established as that of any other Territory. Under these circumstances, what was my duty? Was it to sustain this government, to protect it from the violence of law-less men who were determined to rule or ruin, to prevent it being overturned by force, in the language of the Constitution, to take care that the lawe be faithfully executed? It was for this purpose and this alone that I ordered a military force to Kansas as a posse comitatus, aiding the civil magistrates to carry the laws into execution.

The condition of the Territory at the time, which I need not portray, rendered this precaution actually necessary. In this state of affairs, would I not have been justly condemned had I left the marshall and other officers of like character impotent to execute the processes and judgments of the court of justice, established by Congress or the Territorial legislature under its except the processor.

cute the processes and judgments of the court of justice, established by Congress or the Territorial Legislature under its express authority, and thus have suffered the government itself to become an object of contempt in the eyes of the people; and and yet this is what you designate as forcing the people of Kansas to obey laws not their own nor of the United States, and for doing which you have denounced me as having violated my outh.

I ask what clee could I have done or ought I to lave done? Would you have decided that I should abandon the territorial government, sanctioned as it.

abandon the territorial government, canctioned as it has been by Congress, to illegal violence, and thus renew the scenes of civil war and bloodshed which patriot had deplored.

rehew the scenes of civil war and bloodsact which every patriot had deplored.

This would indeed have been to violate my oath of office, and to fix a damning blot npon the character of my administration. I most cheerfully admit that the necessity for sending a military force to Kanasa to aid in executing the civil law, reflects no credit upon the character of our country, but let the blame fell upon the heads of the guilty. Whence did the necessity arise? A portion of the people of Kanasa, unwilling to trust to the ballot box, the certain American remedy for redreas of all grievances, undertook to create an independent government for themselves. Had this attempt proved successful, it would of course subverted the existing government prescribed and recognized by Congress, and substituted a revolutionary governand substituted a revolutionary govern ut in its stead.

The President then enters into a more particular specification of the condition of affairs requiring the presence of a military force, which he has embraced above in general terms, and continues: The convention will soon assemble to perform the solemn duty of framing a constitution for themselves and their poeterity, and in the state of incipient rebellion which still exists in Kansas, it is my imperative duty to employ the troops of the United States (should this become necessary), in defending the convention against violence while framing a constitution, and in protecting the bons fide inhabitants (qualified to vote under the provisions of this instrument), in the free exercise of the right of suffrage when it shall be submitted to them for their approbation or rejection. The President then enters into a more particular approbation or rejection.

I have entire confidence in Governor Walker, that

I have entire confidence in Governor Walker, that the troops will not be employed except to reast actual aggression, or in the execution of the laws, and this not until the powers of a civil magistrate shall prove available, following the wise example of Mr. Madison toward the Hartford convention.

An illegal and dangerous combination such as that of the Topeka convention, will not be disturbed unless they shall attempt to perform some act which will bring them into actual collision with the constitution and laws. In that event they shall be resisted and put down by the whole power of the Government. In performing this duty I have the approbation of my own conscience, and I humbly trust of my God.

I thank you for the assurance that you will not refrain from the prayer that Almighty God will make my administration an example of justice and subject of slavery, weich has been productive of much evil, and no good, and which if it succeed in attaining its object would ruin the slave as well as the master, this would be genuine philanthopy.

Every day of my life I feel how inadequate I am to perform the duties of my high station without continuing it in support of Divine Providence, yet placing my trust in Him, and Him alone, I entertate a good hope that he will enable me to do equal justice trail portions of the Union, and thus remier me an humble instrument in restoring peace and harmony among the peuple of the several states.

Yours very respectfully,

JAMES BUCHANAN.

At orney General Black says the specified case is that of Julius Author, a native of Bavaria, who came to this country, and, after being naturalized, returned to Bavaria. THE FIRST TRIP.—A party of our citizens cross-cd over yesterday, and took a first trip on the Mem-phis and Little Rock Railroad, some five miles out to the end of the track-laying. Our confere, the to the end of the track-laying. Our confere, the senior editor of the Appeal, was among the number, and from him we learn that the examination of the work so far as it has progressed was highly satisfactory. The superstructure is well laid down, and the running of the locomotive upon it smooth and regular. There are now fourteen miles of iron on the ground, and enough more purchased to lay down the read to the St. Francis. It will begin to arrive from New Orleans next week.—Memphis Hulletin, Aug. 29.

The N. Y. Journal of Commerce, of Tuesday evening,

The N. Y. Journal of Commerce, of Tuesday evening, says:

The Mechanics' Banking Association of this city, an institution with a reputed capital of $852,000, whose customers chi ily among mechanics, builders, and small traders, several days ago found themselves expanded beyond prudent limits, and were chilged to call upon the larger city banks to rediscount a portion of their bills receivable. On Satusday they were again chort, and, as noticed by us this incomplict, the banks again responded to their call. This brought the institution under the notice of the clearing House Committee, who last night met at the bank to make an examination of its affairs. The examination was less eatifactory than hoped for, and a deficiency of $75,000 was discovered in the cash. This deviationer was traced, it is said, to the paying teller, and a warrant was obtained for his arrest. The Committee at once suspended the institution from the prisitige of exchanging as the clearing House, and nothind all the banks to that effect. In consequence of this the bank stopped payment this morning. The circulation (about $20,000) is abundantly secured by New York State Stocks, and the notes will be received by the city banks as used. The deposits will probably be paid in full, as it can hardly be that the capital is entirely consumed, silhough the bills receivable will be loss available than those held by most of the other banks, as many of the castomers are needy borrowers who will mid it difficult to obtain accommodations elsewhere until the market becomes much easier. In addition to the devicency in the accounts of the Teller as stated above, we understand that a loan of $50,000 made by the Cachier is among the suspended de 11s. The deficiency is therefore $125,000. The bills receivities we understand for the $78,000, which, it is reported, he has merely loaned on his own accounts of the Teller as stated above, we understand that a loan of $50,000 made by the Cachier is among the suspended de 11s. The deficiency is therefore $125,000. The

In relation to the failure of Hasch & Langdon, of Clainnall, the Gazette saye:

cinnall, the Gazette saye:

The report of the suspension of Babee & Co., of New York, prepared those who keep the run of leank matters, for the suspension of the Central Bank, which took place this morning. Their balance, we understand, is from $100,000 to silno.000.

We are reliably informed, that independent of the funds in the hands of Behas & Co., the firm has abundant means to discharge its liabilities in full; and we also learn that a telegraph despatch was received to-day from the New York house, offering to place in the hands of Hatch & Langdon, Little Mami first mortance bonds at fifty cents on the dollar as accurity. This offer has been accepted, and Mr. Hatch is on his way to New York to consumate the arrangement. This will probably enable the contral Bank to resume business at an early day.

County finds were deposited in the tentral Bank to the smanul of $100,000. It also has a mamber of heavy depositors among the "up town" merchants, and its creditors, who bayesmall amounts on deposite, are quite numerous.
